foreword

As children's art gives us an insight into their feelings and experiences, so we are endeavoring in the theme of this book to depict the mental and emotional development of the students at National College.

With the eagerness of a child who wants to share his knowledge with someone who cares, we, too, are eager to share with you the spirit, the ideals, the hard work, and the fun of life at N.C.E.

Our sincere appreciation goes to the following people whose help and cooperation have made this yearbook possible:

Mrs. Pauline Galvarro, sponsor, who patiently helped and guided us when we needed assistance;

Mr. Joseph Vogel, representative of the Artmaster Yearbook Company, who taught and advised us in the making of our yearbook;

Mr. Anthony Comunale and Mr. Wayne Brill of Marshall Studio, photographers, who were very cooperative in taking and printing our photographs;

The college faculty, who have shown much interest and given valuable assistance to the yearbook staff;

Our fellow students, who have supported us by working with staff members on the various sections of the yearbook.

To Dr. Eugene B. Cantelupe

A genuine concern for each of us . . . a sympathetic understanding of our problems . . . a vitality that stimulates our curiosity . . . all these are part of a devotion to a chosen profession which makes him a teacher with the creative proficiency of an artist. His willingness to share those little informal and informative experiences which give us a better understanding of the arts has put the "human" in his humanities classes. Even Venus has become part of our everyday lives!
In appreciation for what he has brought to us we gratefully dedicate this book to him . . .

Dr. Cantelupe . . .

teacher extraordinaire!

A teacher affects eternity;
he can never tell where his influence stops.

Henry Brooks Adams

American higher education needs to have a re-affirmation of its goals and objectives in the light of an ever-changing world filled with tensions and challenges. We must never lose sight of the need for the education of the "whole" individual, which includes his moral and spiritual as well as physical, intellectual and social development. We have a concern for the integrity of the individual and the contribution that he can make to society and the free world.

At National College of Education we have always had the growth of each individual as our primary objective with the realization that education of a teacher should be broad enough to include not only what is needed for the professional "know-how", but an understanding of the broad areas of general education. We believe that an understanding and appreciation of the "liberal arts" is basic to a well-educated person. A teacher must be such a person. Through this approach to higher education a teacher broadens his own intellectual base by keeping a free and open mind and reaching decisions only after careful consideration. One of the real strengths in American higher education is this "liberal" approach, through which the individual is taught to think and to express himself.

We often are on the defensive when the critics attack modern education and assert we need to "build" more scientists and technologists. It may be true that we need more and better technical experts, but we also need more and better people with specialties in all fields of learning. The challenge facing us in the months and years ahead will not be that of producing a nation of scientists, mathematicians, etc., but that of building a program that will continue to respect and meet the needs of each individual in a free and democratic society.

K. Richard Johnson,
President

In Memoriam

On March 26, 1959, National lost one of its staunchest friends with the passing of former faculty member, Marguerite Culkins Taylor. From 1926 until poor health forced her retirement from full time teaching in 1947, it was a rare student who had not come under the influence of her teaching and interpretation of the principles of art as applied to the everyday world. Color, texture and line assumed new meanings for her classes as she lectured, introduced specific examples, and encouraged her students to try for themselves-the different media of art forms.

In 1933, the feeling of her students for her fine qualities, both personal and professional, was expressed in a dedication of the year book. "To Marguerite Culkins Taylor, in sincere appreciation of the creative genius which she brings to the recurring problems of plays, festivals, and the Annual, and of her far greater contribution to the College in the fostering of an appreciation among her students, of the enduring beauty of the finer things of life, we dedicate this, the eighteenth volume of The National."

This year the Board of Trustees of National College of Education elected a new President, Christian E. Jarchow. Mr. Jarchow is the retired Executive Vice-President of International Harvester Company, past President of Controllers Institute of America, and former President and member of the Board of Education of New Trier Township High School. We are fortunate indeed to have a man of Mr. Jarchow's background and experience associated with our College.

The Board of Trustees appoints the President, approves the faculty, and has the authority to execute all the affairs of National College of Education. Officers and members of the Board are:

Christian E. Jarchow, President
 Albin E. Carlson, Vice President
 Robert C. Keck, Vice President

John Henry Daugherty came to the science department of National College in 1949 from the Michigan State College Board of Examiners, where he was assistant professor. Since then, he has become an important figure on the N.C.E. scene. Each year he administers the entrance and scholarship exams, as well as the sophomore testing program. He is always more than willing to give individual help and additional explanation to any student.

Mr. Daugherty received his B.S. degree from Dickinson College, Pennsylvania, and his M.A. from Syracuse University. He taught at Denison University and at Syracuse University. From 1950 to 1955, he served on the Skokie Board of Education.

He is the author of numerous articles that have appeared in the Chicago Sunday Tribune, Junior Red Cross Journal, Nature, Natural History, and Science Digest.

To you, Mr. Daugherty, the students of National College express their appreciation and thanks for your understanding and patience at all times!

The Juniors' love for parties and fun began this year with a party at Miss Challand's home to raise funds for the junior dance, which was held at the Mount Prospect Country Club. Among other things they sponsored a bake sale and a sweater raffle. This year the juniors have worked together as a group supporting National's ideals.

 1962

With a Spanish motif and much gusto, the Sophomore Class began an active year with their successful mixer-dance, "La Plaza del Toro". Through much genuine cooperation from the class members, other activities were sponsored, which included the Daisy Chain--the annual tribute to the graduating Seniors--and the issuing of student directories. These activities served not only as sources of fun and funds, but also as devices for unifying class spirit and directing it toward greater and stronger support of N. C. E.

School spirit???

the graduate school

The college catalog of 1960-1961 shows that the Graduate Curriculum is now divided into five different programs of special emphasis: (1) For teachers lacking previous preparation in elementary education, (2) For teachers with degrees or majors in elementary education (emphasis on depth in liberal arts subjects), (3) For certified experienced teachers to prepare for remedial teaching, (4) For personnel in elementary school supervision and curriculum development, and (5) For personnel in elementary administration. In these ways the Graduate School manifests its deep concern for the development of teachers, guidance personnel, and administrators who possess the highest qualities of character, commitment, and professional competence.

athletic club

The Athletic Club affords its members the opportunity to engage in healthy exercise designed to develop physical grace and playing skills in addition to activities offered in physical education. It also satisfies the need many students have for a more vigorous recreational program. This year the members competed in several tournaments with the faculty of National College, and with teams from Mundelein and Northwestern.

college council

College Council is the student governing body made up of the presidents and vice-presidents of the four classes, the leaders of other organizations, and their faculty sponsors. Because it is the student representative body, this year's College Council promoted student and faculty co-operation for the purpose of maintaining the highest standards of student life. international club

A better understanding of peoples beyond our own geographical borders is the object of the International Club. Members are students representing both hemispheres who join together to exchange the experiences of their several homelands. Customs of their various backgrounds are shared at the Christmas Tea, May Dinner, and various programs and service projects throughout the year.

kappa delta pi

Receiving new members.

Kappa Delta Pi, the Theta Eta Chapter of National College, is the honorary society which promotes high standards in the preparation of teachers. This year's theme, "Extending Classroom Teaching," along with the traditional "First Year Teaching," has provided many interesting and informative programs. The National Convocation held at the Shoreland Hotel on March 10-12, the Freshman Tea of March 16, and the two pledging and initiation services have rounded out the school year for Kappa Delta Pi.

m. e. n. c.

The primary purpose of M. E. N. C. is the advancement of music education. The organization is maintained to increase music in general education, to promote adequate training in music for teachers, and to emphasize quality rather than quantity in music education. The members have the opportunity to work for and participate in the advancement of music education.

Now everyone smile in tune!

national staff

Art consultants!

In compiling this book, the National Staff has endeavored to put into words and pictures the spirit, the ideals, the hard work, and the fun of life at National College. The task was time consuming and not always easy, but it was interspersed with fun and satisfaction. We hope you will get as much enjoyment from perusing the book as we did from composing it.

town association officers

The purpose of Town Association is to create a more active relationship between dorm and town students, and many of the meetings are open to both groups. Traditional activities included a Christmas party, Big-Little Sister get-together, a Father-Daughter dinner, and a Mother-Daughter luncheon.

TA and DA travel to the South with Ed Riddick.

y. w. c. a.

Mrs. Johnson speaks on marriage.

The Y.W.C.A. theme for this year is "Y Know Yourself." Through speakers and panel discussions, the students are tempted to look at themselves as individuals and as members of a world society. Service projects provide opportunities to practice their beliefs. The total program attempts to promote more significant living.

may festival

In any language, this all-college production of Visa Versa or Passport, Please, was a fitting culmination to the year's activities. With the help and direction of Mrs. Margaret Lindman, Mrs. Jean Duffy, Miss Marjorie Hunter, and Mr. Richard K. Gorski, National students displayed a variety of talent amid elaborate stage sets and lavish costumes. At the final exhibition of the Festival of Arts Show, the judges picked our May Queen from the portraits of women of today.

daisy chain

One of the loveliest traditions of the school year is the forming of the Daisy Chain. At Commencement the seniors march through this garland of flowers, woven by the Sophomore Class. Following the graduation an original song of farewell is sung by the sophomores to which the seniors sing in answer. It is a beautiful ceremony that symbolizes the love and good wishes extended to the seniors by their fellow students.

Sophomores rewarded as seniors
sing a hearty response.

1959 daisy chain song

Music by Victor Herbert

Words by Curless,
Fritts, Hanna, & Harrington

As you leave these halls, we hope that you'll re- mem- ber- All that we have shared with you all through the years. The friend- ships you have gained, we know you'll al- ways cherish And they will re- main for- ev- er in your hearts.

So we leave with your our wish- es for the fut- ure, that it may be bright, and all your dreams come true. May you have hap- pi- ness and love, and the gui- dance from a- bove

To in- sure a life of joy, for you, for you.

scholarships

Each year deserving members of the Junior Class are awarded scholarships for their senior year on the basis of scholastic achievement, student teaching ability, and character. These scholarships are made possible through gifts and funds presented by friends and alumnae of the college. We can look with pride at our fellow students who have received and richly deserve these awards

We have enjoyed putting into print the many activities of our busy school this year. We have had our problems, but we have also experienced success in completing our task.

It has been a wonderful year and we hope that its record in this book will provide pleasant remembering for students and faculty alike.
